

International Conference on Chronobiology: Time in the living world

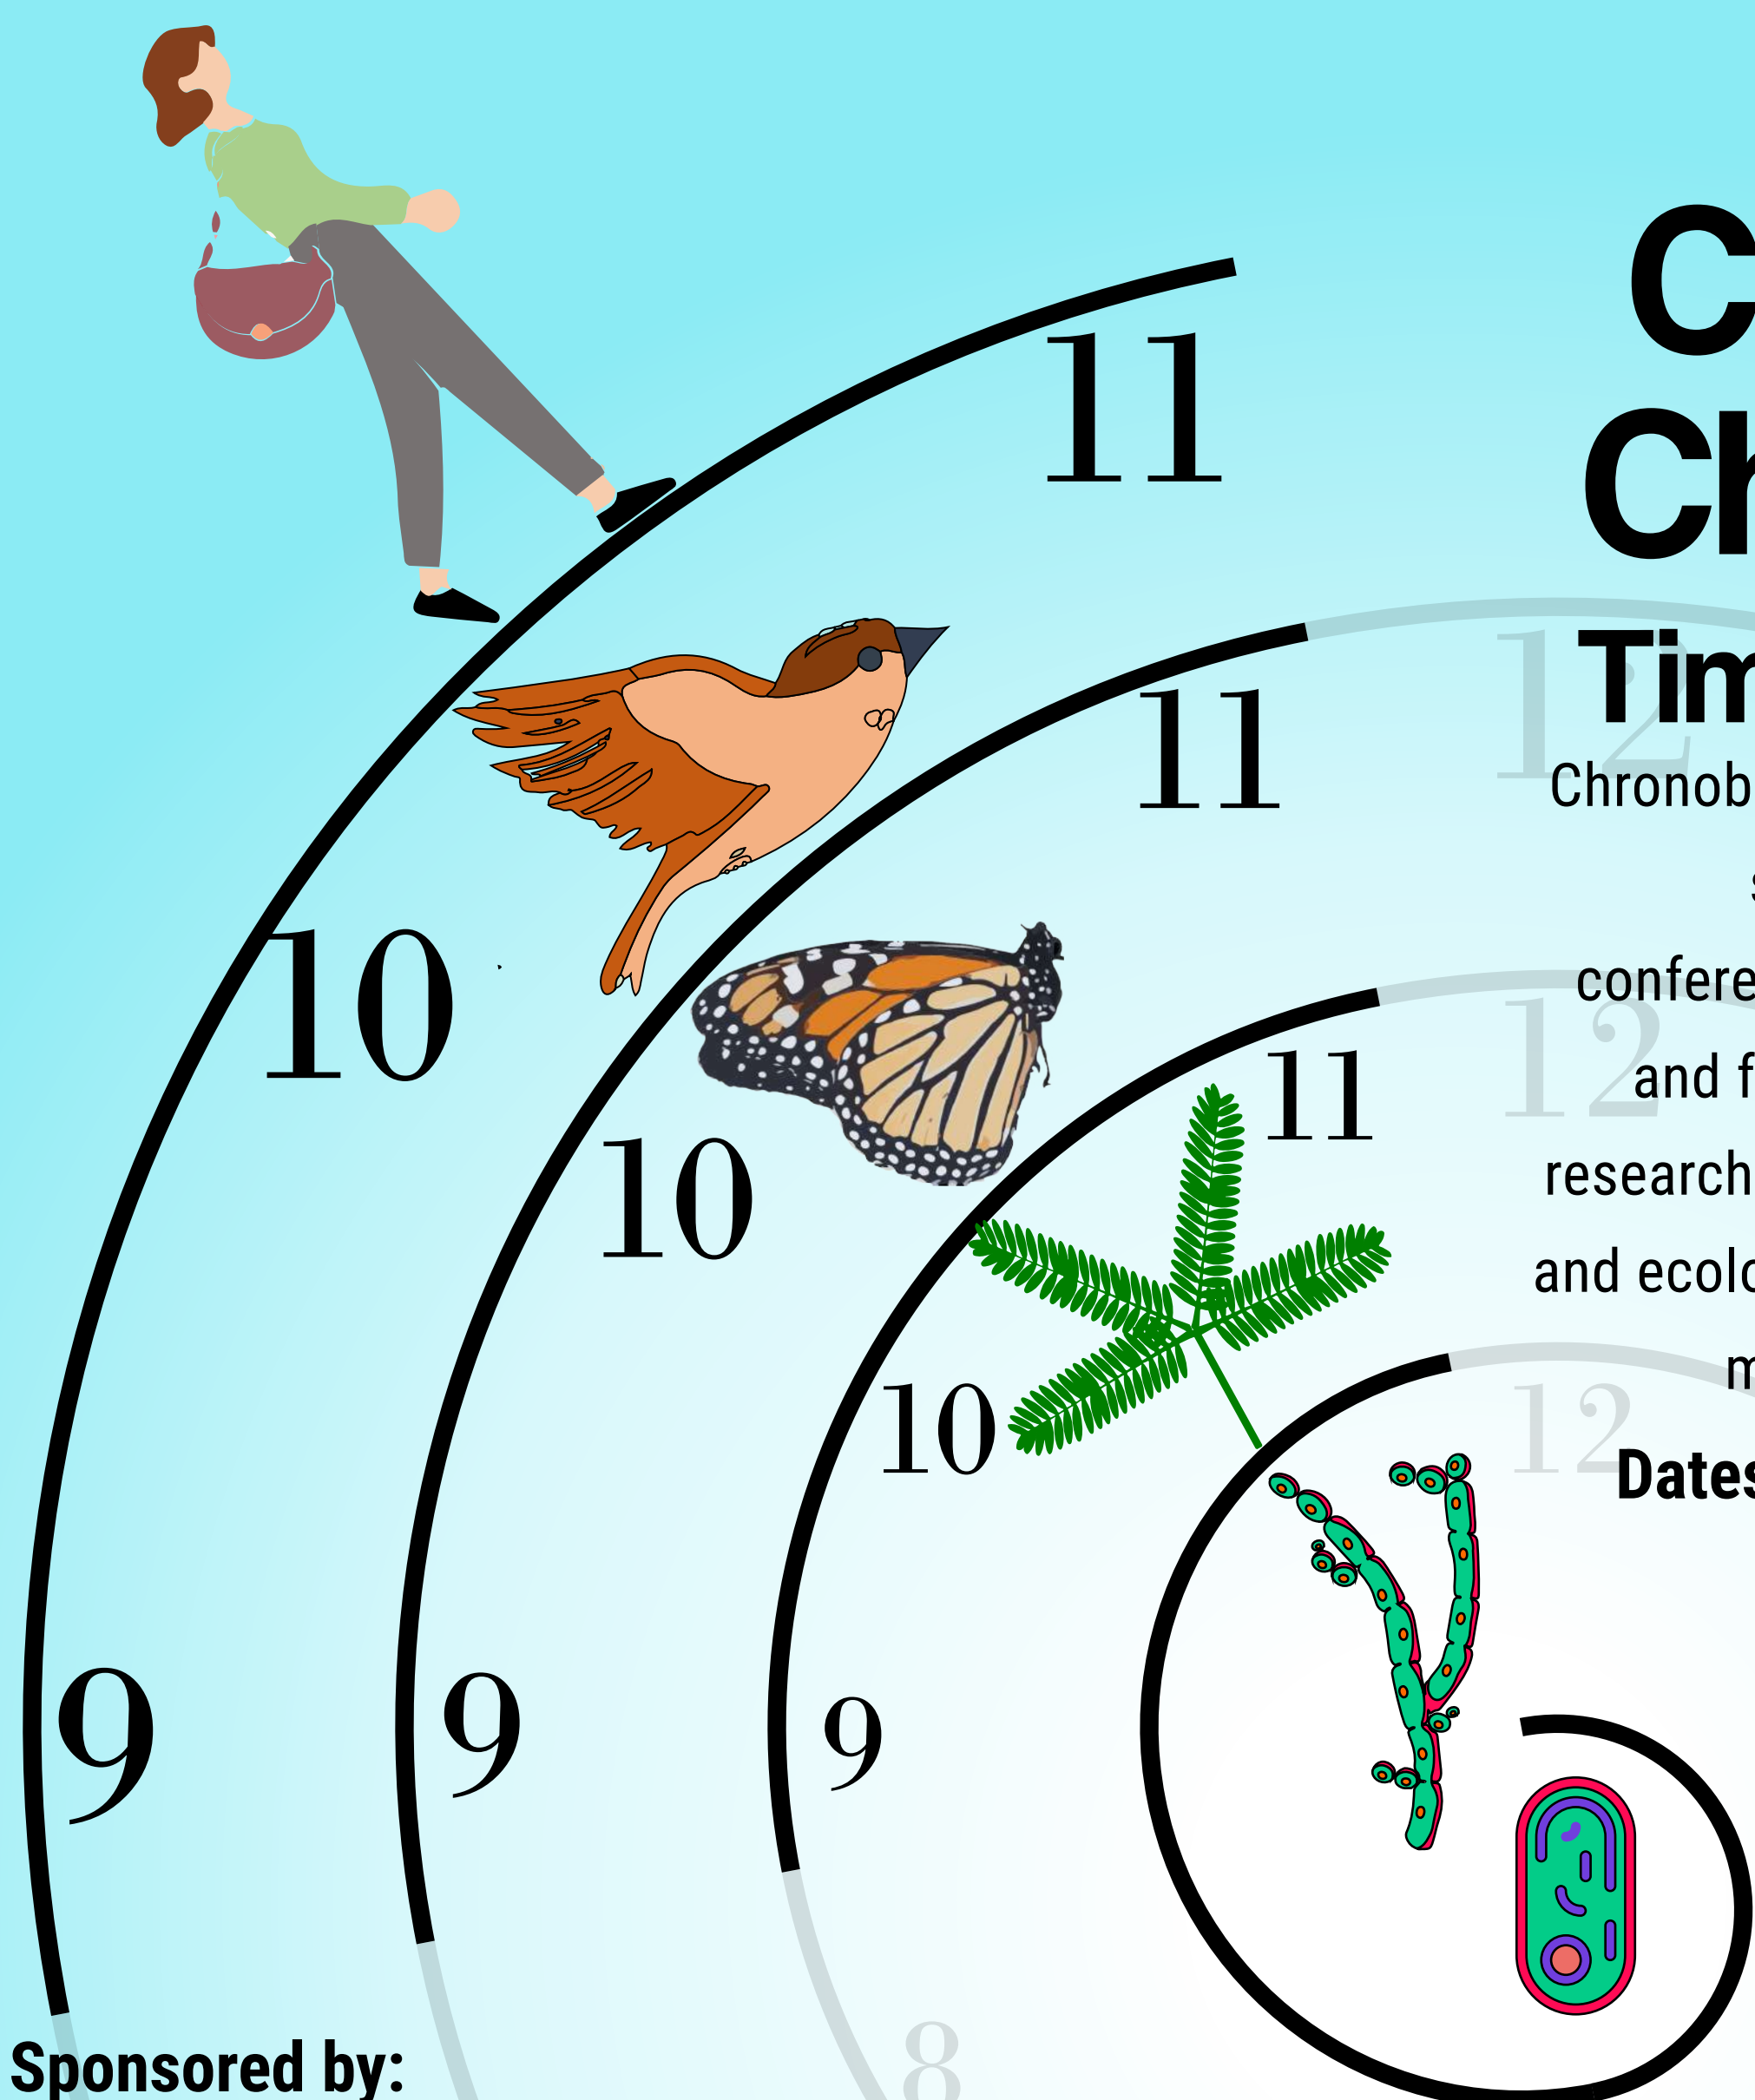

Chronobiology examines biological rhythms across time scales, notably daily and seasonal rhythms. The conference is an ideal platform for students, post-docs and faculty to discuss with internationally acclaimed researchers in the context of human health, evolutionary and ecological significance, underlying neuronal circuits, molecular mechanisms or mathematical models.

Dates: 15-17 July 2021

Organizers:

Sheeba Vasu (JNCASR)
Joanna C Chiu (UC Davis)
Indian Society for Chronobiology

Virtual conference
No registration fee

Sponsored by:

12 sessions - 12 keynote speakers - 18 faculty talks - 8 trainee talks - 2 poster sessions - 2 data blitz sessions

To learn more, register, submit abstracts for talks and posters, scan the QR code or go to <https://www.clockclub.org/icc2021/>
